

LAST WEEK'S PICTURES

Large Number of Puzzlers Failed to Figure Out No. 3 Correctly.

PRIZE WON BY LLOYD WRIGHT

MANY ANSWERS WERE RECEIVED, BUT ONLY COMPARATIVELY FEW WERE ELIGIBLE IN THE CONTEST FOR THE JOURNAL'S ELUSIVE PRIZE DOLLAR.

"No. 3" did it. A whole "ton" of the puzzlers failed to see the "pine—t." just where they got the "ton" and the "tun" they found in that picture is not plain, but they found it, so it must be there.

Now let's turn the whole army loose in this zoo and see how many occupants of the ten cages they will recognize besides that "B-air."

Lloyd Wright of the "Naval Hospital" is entitled to "that dollar" this time, and can get it by calling for it at The Journal office.

The correct answers to last week's puzzles are as follows:

Quite a number of correct answers were received but, as they are not written on the "Answer Coupon" they, of course, were thrown out. Others are so blurred or so faintly written there is no means of deciding whether they are correct or not, so they are thrown out.

A few are partially legible, others have the answers barely legible, but the names can only be guessed at. The following give 9 correct answers. All who miss more than one, miss 3 and 7 or 9. These, with one exception give all correct but "No. 3."
Annie Walsh, "No. 3 ton."
Laura Joyner, "No. 3 ton."
Ted Macarthy, "No. 3 ton."
Harry B. Gibbs, "No. 3 ton."

Dear Puzzle Editor:—I am trying to get "that dollar" and I send my answers and hope they are right. Your little friend, Benj. D. Robinson, Century, Fla.
Well, little friend, if you do not get it this time, keep up your courage and keep trying till you do.
Dear Puzzle Editor:—I sent in correct answers last week but my name was not in the paper this morning. Yours truly, Mildred Brown."
Enclosed with the above was an "Answer Coupon" with "1 Yale, 3 Columbia, 7 Washington and Lee, 9 Princeton," the other answers to April 30, being left blank so, of course, it would have been thrown out. But it would be interesting to know where that list has been for nearly two weeks, and what become of the correct answers Mildred says she sent three weeks ago.

"I Thank the Lord!"
Cried Hannah Plant of Little Rock, Ark., "after the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at all drug stores; 25c.

CARD OF THANKS.
To the many kind and loving friends who lent their sympathy, aid, attention and condolence during the illness of our lamented father, and who, when the death angel appeared and transferred his soul back to its Maker and came as angels of sympathy and succor, and gave us hope; we thank you in this our hour of lamentation.

History of the "Florida" Gunboat of Confederacy.

Nothing would please Stephen R. Mallory more than to present the petitions from the several Boards of Trade asking that one of the authorized battleships soon to be built be named "Florida." Here is what his honored father wrote when secretary of the Confederate States Navy, July 14, 1862, to Lieut. Commander J. N. Maffitt:
"I feel very great anxiety about the Florida and earnestly trust that you may be able to get her to sea safely, and make a dash with her against the enemy. The difficulties in your way are serious I know. Exercise a sound discretion, and do not hesitate to assume responsibility."
Maffitt was then at Nassau. The Florida referred to by the secretary was a screw steamer of 560, bark rigged, built at Liverpool, England, and carried at Nassau April 28, 1861. The U. S. minister, Adams, reported her to the British government, she was seized and held, also examined and it being found that she had none of the characteristics of a vessel of war, she was released in August.
Maffitt now took her to "Green Key" 90 miles south of Nassau with a tender in tow, the Bahamas which transferred her guns and ammunition of war, hoisted the Confederate flag, christened her the Florida, and regularly and lawfully commissioned her a man of war. Maffitt writes from Cardenas, August 20, saying: "I took on board at sea all my battery but forgot in haste rammers, sponges, etc.; had but two firemen and 11 men, run the gauntlet splendidly, my coast survey experience being of great service; have had seven cases of yellow fever, but only three now."
The writer was with Captain Maffitt on the crusader in Pensacola in 1859, being then in the survey of the Florida coast.
The Confederate agent at Havana, Helm, writes of the arrival in Cardenas of the Confederate gun boat Florida on the 18th of August, anchoring 12 miles from town. The captain-general, Serrano, fearing the Federal gunboats might attempt to cut the Florida out from her exposed position proposed to get her around to Havana. I telegraphed Maffitt to come to this port. At this time Maffitt and several of his officers and eight of his crew were down with yellow fever and it was not possible to move. General Serrano then sent two Spanish war vessels to Cardenas, one of which anchored close alongside the Florida and rendered her the anxiety of General Serrano and his wish that the Florida should be here, I wired Maffitt.

W. H. TRIMMER,
Who Served on the Vessel.

Got Away Safely.
On January 12, 1863, after refitting and recruiting the Florida taking advantage of darkness and a howling norther, we ran out past Ft. Morgan and the blockading fleet without being struck. During some months the Florida captured some scores of prizes. Captain Maffitt in the meantime on account of ill health had retired from active duty and was succeeded by Lieut. C. M. Morris, who was in command when she put into the port of Bahia, Brazil, for coal on October 4, 1864.
It was after dark, but next morning we discovered the presence of the United States steam corvette "Wachusett" lying very near. After coaling the ship, Morris and many of his officers and two-thirds of the crew went ashore for the night. About 1 o'clock in the morning the "Wachusett" got under way and her commander ran into the Florida striking her on her starboard quarter, crushing the bulwarks, jammed the wheel, stove in the quarter boat, broke the mizzen mast in three pieces, carried away the main yard and started the seams for about thirty feet. At the same time the "Wachusett" fired two shots from her broadside. The guns of the Florida were unloaded, her fires were out and half the crew ashore. After striking the Florida the "Wachusett" backed off and demanded immediate surrender. Lieut. Stone, the second officer, after a hurried conference, acceded to the demand. A hawser was made fast and the Florida immediately towed to sea arriving at Hampton Roads November 12th, 1864.
Brazil immediately demanded that the Florida be returned to the port of Bahia but diplomacy placed her in charge of an engineer with positive orders to open her sea cock at midnight, so the gallant little Florida was sunk at Hampton roads. On their trip north the officers were paroled but the crew were kept in double irons and taken to Fort Warren, Boston Harbor.

NEWS OF THE WEEK AT COTTONDALE

INTERESTING BUDGET OF PERSONAL AND GENERAL NEWS FROM LIVELY LITTLE CITY.

Special to The Journal.
Cottondale, May 13.—The days have been long and hot and the recent rains are making the farmers hustle to keep their crops in growing condition.
Mrs. John Roe, of Fernandina, who has been visiting relatives at Kynessville during the past few weeks, returned home Tuesday.
Mr. J. C. Shoemaker has just completed a course of bookkeeping with a business college at Montgomery, Ala., and will spend the summer here.
The negro who was shot down in our streets last Saturday has almost fully recovered.
Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McDonald are spending this week with relatives at Ponce de Leon.
Our independent farmers are all holding their cotton.
Mr. Charlie Tharp had the misfortune to get his hand badly cut by the saw at Aycock Bro's mill last Saturday.
Mr. H. C. Register is making five to eight barrels of spirits a week now, and is also turning out a fine lot of rosin.

Mr. T. R. Holliday took his new sailboat to Compass Pond last week. This is the first sail boat ever launched on this magnificent lake. Mr. Holliday did all the work on the boat himself and has named it "Theo," in honor of his youngest daughter. When he stretched the broad white sail and launched her in the sparkling waters of the grand old lake with a stiff south breeze, a party of friends who accompanied him say his smile was like the rising of the full moon.

ACTIVITY IN EAST HILL REAL ESTATE

RESIDENCE PROPERTY BEING BOUGHT, CLEARED UP, AND PUT INTO SHAPE FOR BUILDING.

Beautiful East Hill and the newly discovered home sites have been in active demand the past week, and it would seem that Bayview Park seems to be the objective point.
The Journal has heretofore had considerable to say about this attractive section, but has hardly kept pace with the investors.
During the week block after block has been taken up and same sold again at advanced prices. Still the current prices are no comparison with much property in other parts of the city, not naturally as well situated.
There are nearly three square miles of city blocks and lots without an objectionable feature, all with gentle slopes to the bay and bayou, including beautiful Bayview Park, centrally located on the shore of beautiful Bayou Texar. This property has heretofore been inaccessible, but now with the excellent car service of the eastern belt the outlying property is in active demand.
During the past week there has been a force of men at work clearing the land north of Bayview Park, and this improvement is called to the attention of the city council as an object lesson of what might be and should be done with Bayview Park for the benefit of all the people.
It is one the people that the only park the city has and which has so far cost the city nothing, should receive some attention besides what nature has done.

Son Lost Mother.
"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Mo. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a cough of cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss for Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief and cure for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1 guaranteed at all drug stores. Trial bottle free.
